

This history of the Royal Castle goes back to the 14th century. During the reign of Zygmunt III Vasa the Castle was transformed into a five-winged edifice. It was a royal residence and the place where parliamentary sessions were held. In the 2nd half of the 18th century, artists in the employ of King Stanisław August renovated the interiors, creating the Great Apartment and the King's Apartment. During the partitions (19th century) the majority of the collections were taken to Russia. After Poland regained its independence in 1918, some of these works of art were returned to the Castle. In September 1944 the Castle was blown up by the German army and the decision to rebuild it was only taken in 1971. In 1984 it was opened to the public. Nowadays state ceremonies are held at the Castle and it is also an important educational centre; works of art from the largest European collections are exhibited there.

Grafika- INNO+NPD

- 1.The Oval Gallery
- 2.The Council Chamber
- 3.The Great Assembly Hall
- 4.The Knights' Hall
- 5.The Throne Room
- 6.The European Monarchs' Portrait Room
- 7.The Marble Room
- 8.The Yellow Room
- 9.The Green Room
- 10.The Antechamber to the Dressing Room
- 11.The Red Corridor
- 12.The passage between the Throne Room and the King's Study
- 13.The King's Study
- 14.The King's Dressing Room
- 15.The King's Bedchamber
- 16.The Old Audience Chamber
- 17.The Canaletto Room
- 18.The Small Chapel

- 19.The Officers' Room
- 20.The Hall of the Crown's Horse Guards
- 21.The Four Seasons' Gallery
- 22-24.Prince Stanisław's Apartment
- 25.The New Deputies' Chamber
- 26.The Entrance Room to the New Deputies' Chamber
- 27.The Guards' Gallery
- 28.The Senators' Chamber
- 29-31.The Princes' Rooms
- 32.The Main Vestibule

Source URL: <https://www.zamek-krolewski.pl/strona/your-visit/1176-first-floor>